THRONE ADDRESS

Receives Attention From Opposition—No Offense For Allies and Friends.

LONDON, Dec. 11. (AP)—Resumption of debate on the king's address to parliament last night brought on the house of commons a revival of the recent election campaign conflict over the famous Zinovieff letter which urged revolutionary activity in England.

Prime Minister Baldwin previously had said that the cabinet subcommittee which examined the evidence placed before it in connection with the letter had concluded unanimously that the document was authentic.

John R. Clynes, who was lord privy seal in the late MacDonald cabinet in a general attack on the program of the government of Stanley Baldwin demanded that the house should be afforded a view of evidence on while the subcommittee arrived at its decision regarding the authenticity of the letter. He said the Zinovieff document did so much to obtain Mr. Baldwin his huge majority in the recent election that the premier ought not to object to an independent investigation.

Mr. John Simon a leading liberal in the house, said that the party politics by raising the question of the Franco-American debt negotiations. He said it would be intolerable if Great Britain was to have no say in any readjustment of the debt question between the United States and France. He wanted to know how far Premier Baldwin regarded these allied debts as assets.

Other liberals having supported Mr. John's invitation for a government statement, Winston Churchill, chairman of the opposition, requested the house to vote on a resolution for him, on the ground that he was very busy in the duties of the chancellor and could not pretend to be involved in the details of finance, and that he was most anxious in dealing with such a delicate matter to avoid the use of any language likely to cause offense to "our allies and friends" on the continent or across the Atlantic.

The chancellor then alluded to Great Britain's tremendous sacrifices and burdens in the war, which he said entitled her to respect from every quarter. Great Britain's financial burdens since the war had been incomparably greater than those of any other victorious power.

Furthermore these women do come to Paris to have dresses made according to the traditions of their own countries, so they bow French fashions and never make concessions to us, they take what they want.

Mortimer Says He Had Given
Forbes Six Bribes In Hospital Contracts.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. (AP)—Five hours more of intense cross examination developed several flaws in the story of Elias H. Mortimer, chief government witness in the Forbes trial, concerning his attempts to secure Veterans' Bureau hospital contracts through corrupt acts.

"That was my recollection at the time," Mortimer said when confronted with exhibits of his testimony before the senate committee, which differed substantially from his direct testimony in the present trial.

"I don't remember," he answered several times during the day when asked to explain to the jury these apparent inconsistencies in his story.

Mortimer was on the witness stand today for this third day of cross examination in the trial of Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, and John W. Thompson, Chicago, and St. Louis contractor, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in hospital construction awards during Forbes' administration.

He appeared eager several times to go beyond the scope of the question of the examiner in making his answer, and succeeded by this method in again giving vent to his animosity for Forbes.

"I gave him a thousand dollars in cash, and he would have got more of me had he left my wife alone," the witness said in answer to a question as to how he paid Forbes his share of an alleged bribe.

Judge S. Eashby-Smith, chief counsel for Forbes, completing his cross examination at the morning session centered on Mortimer's indictment in New York in May, 1923, for violation of the Volstead act, and the settlement of the case without a trial after Mortimer had explained the circumstances of the indictment to Mrs. Mabel G. Willenburt, assistant attorney general, in charge of prohibition cases.

Randolph Laughlin, counsel for Thompson, took over the cross examination centering on transactions involving the Thompson and Black Construction company, and allied concerns in which Thompson was interested.

Laughlin endeavored to establish evidence that the agreement between Thompson and Black and Mortimer, under which the latter was the negotiating agent of the construction firm in veterans' bureau matters was based on an understanding entirely free from any considerations suggesting conspiracy, or even hinting at corruption.

LONDON STILL IN GRIP OF FOG OF YEARS

Omnibuses and "Trams" Almost Out of Business—Five Million Dollar Loss.

LONDON, Dec. 11. (AP)—London today is still in the grip of one of the worst fogs in years. It descended upon the city Tuesday night and continued throughout yesterday and last night.

This morning thousands were delayed going to work because of the burdening of the subways with unusual passenger traffic caused by the paralysis of the omnibus and tramway service. Busses were unable to move fast and crawled through the inky mist like snails bumping into each other and against the curbs.

Several persons were injured in collisions. It is estimated that the fog cost the city through the atmospheric damper upon business, a sum estimated at five million dollars.

KENTUCKY WOMEN GAIN PROMINENCE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 11.—Kentucky women were prominent in the fifth annual convention of the Southeastern Council of Federated Club Women, which has just completed a three day session at Montgomery, Ala.

Mrs. Stanley Borman Reed of Mayesville, Ky., is vice-chairman of the council; and Mrs. W. J. McCollum of Gainesville, Fla., chairman. Two Kentucky women were on the program.

Mrs. Reed, formerly recording secretary of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, not only responded to the address of welcome given by Governor William W. Braden and Mayor William A. Gunter but spoke at invitation of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, who is her cousin. Her talk was on the Southern Women's Educational Alliance.

Mrs. Gibson is president of the New York branch of the alliance, and is a sister of Lady Astor. One of the chief addresses was given by Miss Emma Grauman, a former Louisville woman, who is now lecturer for the New York City board of education and is a noted educator in the country. Her subject was "New Experiments in the Education of Young Children."

The main themes for discussion of the council were club institutes, law enforcement, and international relations.

"Southern states in the council are homogeneous in the character of the population, and in an interchange of ideas cannot fail to stimulate, revivify and broaden the work of each state federation belonging."

Mrs. Reed, the Kentucky woman vice-chairman, declared.

Belonging are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The meeting place each year is in another one of the states, in order that the club women in each may be thrown in contact with the personnel and hear the views of the representative women in Dixieland.

Mrs. Reed said.

She Captured Bank Robber

A red-haired woman, Mrs. J. W. Buchan, 27, of Memphis, Tenn., turned detective and captured Hart Austin, 28, bank robber known throughout the southwest and even up in the province of Ontario. Two friends of Austin's had engaged a room at Mrs. Buchan's home. Then Austin (seen in inset) began coming around to see them. Mrs. Buchan tapped telephone wires. When Austin came in one day she met him at the door with a shotgun and held him until police arrived. Austin and his companions had planned to rob another bank that very day, detectives say.

Middlesboro To Have Community Christmas Tree

Definite plans for the Community Christmas Tree celebration were laid last night at a meeting of representatives of various organizations of this city in the Playground Association office in the city hall. The Christmas celebration is being sponsored by the Community Chest and is in charge of August Fisher, playground director.

The meeting last night following a meeting Monday night of the Community Christmas Celebration committee was composed of W. R. Pool, chairman, R. L. Maddox and J. W. Bradner. They decided to ask all of the organization in town to take part in the celebration and to appoint one member from each organization to form a general central committee for this celebration. At the meeting last night each one reported what his organization would do.

The Christmas tree celebration will be held at 3 o'clock the afternoon of Christmas Eve at the Christmas Tree which will be erected on the National Bank corner and which will stand there the following week. Santa Claus will be there for the occasion and there will be carol singing, special music and other features preceding the distribution of the baskets. In the evening, from 7 to 8 p. m., there will be a revival of the old English custom of carol singing, and groups of singers will drive around the city in cars to sing carols, stopping at each house where they find a light in the window.

The Kiwanis Club will furnish the Christmas tree and lights for it. The churches will turn over their gifts from their White Christmases and like sources. The Community Chest donation of $100, the Elks' gift of $50 and contributions to the Empty Stocking fund being conducted by the DAILY NEWS will be spent for warm clothing for the needy poor. Various other organizations and lodges will have a part in these contributions. The Red Cross will turn over the gifts brought by the children to the school the Friday before Christmas. Any one who wishes to may send contributions of money to the Empty Stocking Fund or of food, clothing and toys direct to Mr. Fischer's office in the city hall. Members of the Woman's Club and the Girl Scouts will sort out these gifts and put them in baskets.

Special care is being taken in compiling the list of persons who will receive baskets. The Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Parent-Teachers' Association and the schools will all furnish lists of needy persons. These will be cross-checked to see that there are no duplications and all doubtful cases will be investigated.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. (AP)—Herbert Holliday, Brent Glasscock and the four Newton brothers who pleaded guilty in two million dollar mail train robbery trial, were sentenced to Leavenworth prison today. The sentences of the sextette ranging from one to twenty five years. Holliday received the maximum sentence. Glasscock, Willis and Willie Newton, the latter wounded and who was brought in to court on a stretcher, received sentences of twelve years.

William Fahy, former post office inspector and James Murray, local politician, charged with being the arch plotters in the robbery, are already serving terms of twenty five years following their recent conviction.

Jesse, youngest of the Newton brothers, who did nothing to guard the loot, received the lightest sentence, a term of one year.

Injunction Asked Pool Agreement

FRANKFORT, Dec. 11. (AP)—Governor Felix today appointed Judge Sam Hurst of Hartsville to hear application of dark tobacco growers co-operative association for an injunction against George Rudy and Robert Stuart directors of the pool, to restrain them from inducing members of the association to violate their pool agreement.

Imitate Methods Of Primitive Gallics

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 11. (AP)—The primitive methods used by the legions of Julius Caesar in building bridges during his Gallic campaigns are being employed by a group of United States soldiers to construct a 280-foot span over the upper Elwha river in the wild Olympic mountains of Washington.

The soldiers include 130 officers and men of the Sixth Engineers, from Camp Lewis. They are building the bridge for the forest service, to gain experience and to save money for the government. The structure is being put up from a trail in one of the most isolated sections of the West and no power machinery of any kind is available. The troops and army mules are doing all the work, from cutting down trees to putting them in place for the bridge. The soldiers live in a tent village. They have to pack their supplies for miles over forest and mountain trails.

Gypsy Language Is Placed In Print

SOFIA, (AP)—The Gypsy language, which is not regarded as a written tongue, has been put into print for the first time this autumn for political campaign purposes.

It is printed in Slavic characters, but reads of the words are unintelligible to a Bulgarian or any other Slavic-speaking person. The political terms, however, are Slavic words.

An agrarian campaign document, printed in the Romyan language, points out that the late dictator, Stamboulsky, was anxious to enfranchise the entire Gypsy race, but the Democratic Union prevented the enfranchisement by putting an end to the Stamboulsky regime. Under the Bulgarian constitution the Gypsies enjoy the same rights of equality that are enjoyed by every other race.

Burglars Enter Blue Diamond and Met- ropolitan Offices.

MAKE LIGHT HAUL

Fail To Open Insurance Co.
Safe Where Nominal Reward Awaited Them—An Amateur Job.

Burglars entered the building occupied by the Blue Diamond Virginia Coal Co. and the offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., sometime between the hours of ten last night and four this morning. Gaining entrance thru the furnace room, they made their way into the offices of both firms, breaking into the vault of the coal company and smashing the knobs of the insurance office safe. No large sum was in the coal company vault as little money is kept there except under unusual circumstances. The sum secured is not known but the yeggs had a light haul for their pains.

In the coal company office the intruders, disgusted with the absence of loot, destroyed a considerable number of stamps on one of the desks. In this office the thieves made a complete job of ransacking the place, everything looking this morning like it had been struck by a small typhoon. A check that lay on one of the desks was missed in the overhaul given to the place. The safe here contained over a hundred dollars but when the knob was smashed, the combination hung and the burglary went no further.

While the job had some appearance of professional work, it still has an amateurish side. The burglars were careful to tape their hands to avoid fingerprints but the job of safe cracking was decidedly unartistic from a yegg standpoint. Plenty of time was taken on the job and it is thought that at least two or perhaps three were on the job for an hour or more. That the job looked over before the "break" was made was evidenced from the manner the burglars entered the building.

Knoxville has been undergoing a mild wave of safe "blowing" and house breaking and it is thought that some of the operatives on the jobs in that city have found things too warm for them and are seeking new fields for their enterprises. Two suspicious characters were seen loitering in the vicinity of the Middlesboro Motor Co. this morning and when approached by an employee of that company, one of them started to run.

Will Conduct Empty Stocking Fund

The Middlesboro Daily News will conduct its usual Empty Stocking fund this year and contributions will be turned over to the Community Christmas Tree fund to be used for buying necessary clothing for needy persons. This community celebration will take care of the city's Christmas this year and all organizations, lodges and churches are cooperating in it.

As has been the custom before, contributions to this fund may be brought or sent to the Daily News. They may also be turned in to August Fischer, playground director, who is in charge of the Christmas celebration, at his office in the city hall.

The Empty Stocking fund has been exceedingly popular during the three years in which the Daily News has conducted it. Contributions have been generous and many needy persons have been helped through means of it.

The fund this year has been started by a contribution of $100 from the Community Chest and $50 from the Elks Club.

WORLD FLIGHT COSTS HALT AIR SCHEMES

Officers Familiar With Special Phases of World Flight
Say Adventure Cost Close
To $100,000.

MONEY IS GONE

Suggestions For New Questions Of The Air Smashed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. (AP)—The "hope chest" of the Army Air Service, containing suggestions for new conquests of the air in many parts of the world, has been smashed. Its condition now is such that at least six or seven months will pass before its top can be lifted and a scheme of any sort extracted for serious consideration.

Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Air Service and promoter of the successful world flight, recognizes the existing situation and is willing to wait awhile before he approves a new expedition by army aviators into still unexplored air routes. This decision, in part, at least, was compelled by results of the world flight.

While the books have not been completed balanced, officers familiar with the financial phases of the globe encircling flight estimate that the costs of that record breaking achievement, expressed in dollars, will total $100,000. Indirect costs, including expenses of mail patrols and cooperation, fuel, transportation of supplies, and maintenance of the fleet, the money will amount, at least, to another $100,000, and probably more.

The money outlay caused much of the damage to the "hope chest" Congress must provide again before any extended plans for new conquests can be approved. The money, however, is a general theme throughout the Army Air Service and has demonstrated its effectiveness and given a practical exhibition of its willingness to try almost impossible things, such as flying over the world, approaching the North Pole, and making the first stop flight across the continent.

Altitude tests and other experiments are being conducted, and the full share of speed records. Nevertheless there is a continuous movement on the part of air service personnel to have such experiments carried forward regularly. From these sources, suggestions for all sorts of flights are reaching the headquarters here. Usually the plans are accompanied by volunteer offers in writing, transmitted by the originators and requesting permission to attempt whatever project has been suggested.

One of the suggested projects which will be found close to the top of the "chest" when it is opened, is that of a proposed flight from the West Coast to Hawaii. It may be that this proposal will give serious study next spring to summer. Army fliers realize, however, that the Pacific, because of the order of things existing between the land and naval forces, is essentially a navy problem. Therefore, they may leave the Hawaii flight to the navy aviators, if the latter wish to undertake it.

In the event it is ever decided to attempt the Pan-American air expedition, it is felt the results would be even more widespread, and the application more general, thinking as it would be close relations and means of communication between the countries of North and Central America.

Vienna Has Adopted American Slogan

VIENNA, (AP)—The American slogan, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," has reached Vienna and is proving its worth. Many brought out their toys and Christmas goods weeks earlier than season that formerly. This was to stimulate business in Vienna, to an enterprising merchant who heard of the idea from an American friend.

The dealer says the proposal taken exceedingly well with the men customers, and that the fact that this is the first time the plan has been tried in Vienna.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT cities are known by the Public Utilities they maintain.

THAT Public Utilities do much to develop cities. Without their service, no city can move ahead.

THAT those who seek new homes, locations for industries or with capital to invest, investigate the service offered by Public Utilities first.

THAT electric power makes it possible for manufacturers to cut down cost of production which in turn means reduced prices to consumers.

THAT electric power makes it possible for city and urban sections to have quick, convenient and comfortable transportation.

THAT electric power promotes home comfort and increases household economy.

THAT electric power is a service that no community can do without.

Electric power is an indispensable service. It is a definite, tangible service that no community can do without.

All the natural advantages imaginable cannot make a city great unless it's citizens realize the importance of its public utilities and use their service in its development. Where citizens realize this fully, no lack of natural advantages can long retard its growth, for they and the utilities will supply whatever is needed.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON.—The capital's social maelstrom soon will be boiling. Congress is back, officialdom is all accounted for and the White House has announced its "social calendar" for the season.

This latter event was the dropping of the barrier which held back the plans of dames and dappers of the inside set. For nobody who is anybody thinks of having any affairs that will conflict with dinners or receptions being given by the president.

So until the White House program is announced it is wholly impossible for the socially elect to chart a schedule for the season.

Nine major events at which they will be host and hostess are to be crowded into the Coolidge's list of functions within the brief span of two months. Beginning with a dinner to the cabinet on December 18, the schedule calls for a New York reception January 1; diplomatic reception January 8; diplomatic dinner, January 15; judicial reception, January 22; Supreme Court dinner, January 20; congressional reception, February 5; speaker's dinner, February 12, and army and navy reception, February 19.

Mothers of matrimonially eligible sons are looking forward with interest to the arrival of the new French ambassador, M. Emile Dae-schener, who will supplant Jules Jusserand early in January.

M. Dae-schener will bring to the French embassy two daughters, and for the first time since it was built the big stone house topping "Embassy Hill" will know the presence of "young folks." Who knows—

Callers at the White House noted recently, in Mrs. Coolidge's private music room on the second floor, some musical scores bearing the imprint:

"Words and music by John Coolidge."

It seems that young John, inheriting his mother's taste for music, has turned composer while in college and that several of his ditties have scored a very good sale.

Although a student at Amherst, his father's alma mater, he is said to have an eye on a degree in music from Yale.

If President Coolidge is looking for a cosmopolitan farmer to fill the post of secretary of agriculture in his new cabinet, he may name Samuel Adams, agriculturist, horticulturist, pomologist and editor. Sam is willing to undertake the job.

Adams summarizes his biography thus:

"A Massachusetts 'Yankee' by birth; a Florida 'Cracker' by raising; an 'F. F. V.' (First Family of Virginia) by marriage; a Californian by adoption; a resident of Illinois, and a Republican in politics."

Four years ago Adams was a candidate for the vice presidential nomination on the Republican ticket.

To introduce himself, he played the Congress Hotel, Chicago, where he had headquarters during the convention, with big signs reading "Adam's Apples" and passed out barrels of choice fruit from his Virginia orchards.

The delegates ate his apples but voted for Cal Coolidge.

Crowding automobile traffic threatens to lay low one of the unique landmarks of the capital city.

Across the Pennsylvania avenue end of West Executive avenue, between the White House grounds and the State, War and Navy Building, the roadway is barred by three sets of massive iron gates swinging from huge stone pillars set in the street.

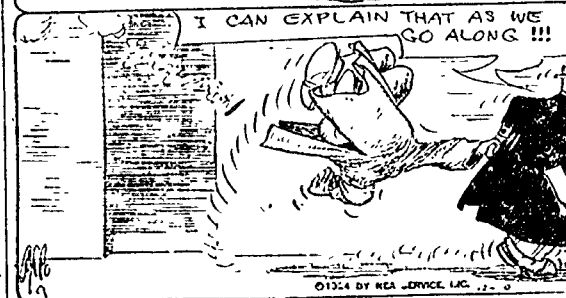

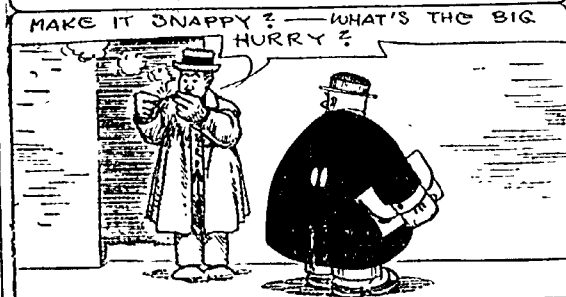

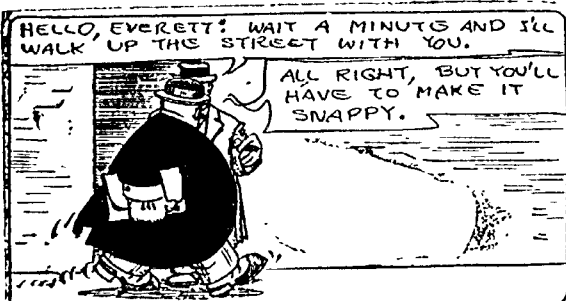

That is, the roadway can be so barred. But only at times when traffic past the White House is restricted are the gates closed.

Now, however, presidential seclusion is asked to make way for crowded traffic. The War Department has asked Congress for authority to remove the gates and pillars in the interest of "freer traffic."

ANIMALS DIE OF WHITE PLAGUE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 11.—With the annual campaign for the sale of Christmas Seal now on in Kentucky under the direction of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, interest is centering upon the ravages of the dread disease, both as it affects humans and the lower animals.

Tuberculosis is shown to be a prominent cause for losses in swine according to a recent report of the meat inspection division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Of about 54,000,000 hogs in the United States, Federally inspected, during the year ended June 30, 1924, a total of 222,670 dressed hog carcasses were condemned for various causes. Nearly one half of this number were condemned because of tuberculosis infection. In addition to the 100,000 whole carcasses there were 1,009,253 parts of carcasses condemned because of tuberculosis.

This represents a great loss to the swine raisers of the country, which according to specialists of the department of agriculture, can be prevented to a large extent. Following infected cattle in feed lots is said to be a chief means of swine becoming infected. Again tuberculosis has been shown to be another important cause of infection in swine. Fowls that have died from tuberculosis, when fed to swine pass the disease on to swine.

A report of tuberculosis eradication division shows increasing economy in eradicating bovine tuberculosis. The average cost of a tuberculin test was thirty cents. The previous year 46 cents. This reduction in two years approximately one third, was accomplished by confining activity to circumscribed areas.

Despite the decrease in cost of treatment the losses to cattle, swine, chickens and other animals chiefly found on the farms mounts into high figures annually, most of which can be saved through prevention. Not only is this costly, but tuberculosis infection in such is dangerous to human lives.

GINSBURG DEPT. STORE

Salesman Wanted

We want a high-grade, high-powered automobile salesman. He must be a man of good standing, upright, progressive, convincing, the kind of a man whose actions will always reflect credit on the name STUDEBAKER. No other sort would feel at home with us. The right man is going to make this a permanent connection—we don't want to be bothered with a man who expects to try it awhile and then try something else. We prefer a man of family and a home owner, though the right man can readily earn enough to own his own home.

Good Salesmen stay with STUDEBAKER because:—

1—STUDEBAKER owners are satisfied with the car they buy and the service they get. They come again and they send their friends because they like our service.

2—We have a big market for used cars, treat every used car buyer fairly—have a complete used car organization and so give the salesman a better opportunity to trade for old cars at proper prices.

3—STUDEBAKER line is complete—there's a car for every pocketbook. The thousand dollar buyer finds just what he wants and the three thousand dollar purchaser is highly pleased with his car. The buyer can select what he wants instead of being forced to take something else or trade elsewhere.

4—The name STUDEBAKER stands for the best in the industry. For 72 years it has meant high-grade vehicles. Back of it are assets of $90,000,000—the car buyer knows that the STUDEBAKER guarantee means something. FOLKS ARE MORE AND MORE TURNING TO THE RESPONSIBLE MANUFACTURER FOR THE AUTOMOBILE THEY BUY.

All these things means increased sales and therefore greater earning power for salesmen. This man should earn $3,000 per year or better.

FOXES INCREASE AS HUNTING SEASON

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Application of the restriction against fox hunting in certain portions of England because of outbreaks of foot and mouth disease among horses, has resulted in a veritable scourge of foxes. Although the fox-hunting season is in full swing, the Meynell, Pychley, Belvoir, Cottingham and other hunts covering a wide area have been forced to suspend, and while farmers armed with guns have made heavy inroads on the foxes of these districts, it is estimated that there are now more foxes in England than

NEWS FROM THREE STATES

KENTUCKY

ANNEXED TITLE

RICHMOND, Dec. 11.—White Hall High School's boys quintet annexed the county high school basketball ball title Saturday afternoon by a clean-cut victory over Union City High School by a score of 20 to 8. Led by the brilliant work of Duh, White Hall's crack forward, that combination ran rough shot over Union City in the second and third quarters to win easily.

The game was witnessed by the largest crowd of the tournament which has been in progress in the gymnasium of the Teachers College since Thursday. The cheering for both sides was strong with good delegations from both communities being in Richmond.

CLEAR MONEY ON MINSTREL

RICHMOND, Dec. 11.—The local American Legion Post cleared $500 from the recent minstrel show.

In past years a large portion of the receipts has been taken by the person or persons acting as coaches. The home talent coaches and personnel of this year's show meant more real profit than any previous show has shown.

Jimmy Leeds says the boys are more than satisfied and that next year's show will be bigger and better than ever.
